A LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY-GENERAL:

Dear Delegates,

It is my privilege to welcome you all to ILMUNC Dubai 2026. At this conference you will be given the unique opportunity to engage with students who take positions completely different from your own, while simultaneously working towards similar end goals. It's in that seemingly contradictory space where the greatest amount of learning and progress occur. Model UN is not just about finding solutions to some of the world's most challenging problems: it's about forging meaningful connections with peers whom you may not have otherwise had the opportunity to meet. It's my job as Secretary-General to ensure that this conference is a success. With that in mind, I need your help to make that success a reality. Regardless of the position you have, or the committee you're in, success of this conference is defined by real learning and real connection. You all have the individual responsibility to take the first step towards building that foundation.

ILMUNC is a global organization, hosting conferences in Philadelphia, China, Vietnam, Peru, and of course, India. While this may just be one conference, it's your gateway into the broader ILMUNC network. I am deeply thankful for the diligence and dedication of this year's Secretariat, and equally grateful to our host, Amity University, for graciously hosting ILMUNC Dubai.

As you prepare for this conference, I hope you remain true to the values of diplomacy, teamwork, leadership, and learning. Your experience at ILMUNC is far more than any award could represent, because your time as a delegate at this conference equips you with the skills necessary to begin your journey as a leader of tomorrow, today.

I look forward to welcoming you to ILMUNC Dubai.

See you soon,

Sincerely,

Brianna Kwan

Committees & Agenda

A young woman with long dark hair, wearing a grey blazer over a black top and a blue sash, is holding a white paper airplane aloft in her right hand. She is looking upwards with a focused expression. The background is a dark, high-contrast image of a historic building with multiple domes and ornate architectural details. The overall tone is professional and aspirational.

ILMUNC Dubai 2026 features a diverse range of committees designed to challenge delegates across varying levels of experience and interest areas. From traditional UN bodies to specialised and crisis committees, each forum engages participants in dynamic, policy-driven debate.

The agendas explore pressing global issues spanning geopolitical tensions, economic development, human rights, and technological governance. Delegates are expected to research thoroughly, collaborate effectively, and think critically as they draft resolutions, negotiate with peers, and work toward innovative and sustainable solutions to real-world problems.

Delegation Size

- Schools may register delegations of 5 or more students. If a school is interested in sending a larger group, we would be happy to accommodate them, subject to committee availability. Typically, the maximum participation from one school is around 50–60 students.
